Fingerprints of Unvaccinated NYC Teachers Sent to FBI, Affidavit Says

Unvaccinated New York City teachers were reportedly "flagged" with "problem codes" and their fingerprints sent to the FBI, according to an affidavit filed in federal court last week.

Unvaccinated New York City teachers were reportedly "flagged" and their fingerprints sent to the FBI, according to an affidavit filed in federal court last week.

In the New Yorkers for Religious Liberty Inc. v. The City of New York appeals hearing, challenging the now-rescinded vaccine mandate for city employees, plaintiff's attorney John Burch said that "flagged" teachers were labeled with "problem codes" that impact their ability to get another job.

The allegations were based on a June 2022 affidavit written by Betsy Combier, president of the due process advocacy group Advocatz, detailing how the New York City Department of Education (DOE) flagged unvaccinated teachers without evidence of misconduct and sent their information, including fingerprints "to the national databases at both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and [New York's] State Division of Criminal Justice Services."

Sujata Gibson, an attorney representing the plaintiffs, commented on these revelations to The Defender:

> "These are hardworking teachers and educators with excellent employment records who dedicated their lives to teaching in the New York City public schools. It is unacceptable that the DOE would place problem codes on their employment files and flag their fingerprints with the FBI simply because they were not able or willing to get vaccinated.
>
> "This was never about public health. This was about punishing those whose religious and other beliefs don't line up with corporate interests in an effort to make it impossible to dissent."

Michael Kane, national grassroots organizer for Children's Health Defense and founder of Teachers For Choice, reported the "problem codes" on Feb. 9, one day after the hearing in the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

He explained the relevance of this information for the case to The Defender:

> "The point our attorneys were making is that not only were our constitutional rights violated when the mandates first occurred, but that these violations continue to occur, because this problem code is put on for us practicing our sincerely held religious beliefs. And when we go to apply for jobs, it's still blocking us.
>
> "So that is the main thrust of the argument. That's one of the pieces of evidence that there is ongoing harm happening to us [because] they never stopped. To this day we are experiencing harm because of what New York City did to us. That was the real rationale that our attorneys were trying to get across."

Unvaccinated teachers denied jobs due to the 'problem code'

According to Combier's affidavit, the DOE assigns "problem codes" to the personnel files of employees that "should not be hired due to unexplained misconduct of some kind."

The affidavit stated:

> "When the DOE puts a problem code in the employee's personnel file, it also places a flag on the employee's fingerprints, which is then sent to the national databases at both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the State Division of Criminal Justice Services.
>
> "I have represented more than 15 DOE employees before the DOE's Office of Personnel Investigation in proceedings in which they requested the removal of their problem codes. The flag has several names such as 'problem code,' 'pr' code, 'pc' code, 'ineligible,' and 'no hire/inquiry' code; however, all refer to a salary block, whatever title it is given."

Combier stated she had seen such "problem codes" in the personnel files of former DOE employees who did not receive the COVID-19 vaccine.

> "The DOE places a problem code on the employee's personnel file immediately upon getting information that the employee did not submit proof of vaccination.
> "As soon as the employee gets the vaccination and submits proof, the code is removed from his or her file."

Combier also provided an email from a DOE official confirming that a "problem code" was added to the personnel files of "DOE employees who were placed on leave without pay for failing to be vaccinated in violation of the DOE's mandate."

The "flag" then adversely impacted the employment prospects of teachers when they sought jobs outside of New York City. Combier wrote:

> "I am aware that non-DOE schools located in counties outside New York City receive funds from the NYC DOE for certain teaching positions. These may include, for example, special education or STEM [science, technology, mathematics] teachers.
>
> "The DOE pays the salaries for these positions using the same system it uses to pay traditional DOE employees, which is called Galaxy. Galaxy indicates whether the employee has a problem code in his or her file and blocks payment to the employee with this flag/code if viewed in the personnel file."

As a result:

> "At least 15 of my clients with problem codes were not hired by prospective schools outside the DOE because such schools saw the problem codes in Galaxy, even though those schools were located outside New York City.
>
> "Such schools were able to see the codes because the position applied for was financed by the DOE and so the school used the Galaxy system and could check the prospective employee's file."

Attorneys for the city did not deny the veracity of this information in court.

Kane wrote, "Attorney Susan Paulson who was defending NYC stated that educators fired for declining COVID vaccination were not removed for misconduct, but rather for not meeting a requirement for employment."

"If there was no misconduct, why are unvaccinated educators' fingerprints sent to the FBI?" asked Kane.

Kane: Refusing vaccination isn't 'extremist'

Kane told The Defender that Teachers For Choice will attempt to work with city officials to discover the facts surrounding the assignment of the codes and the sharing of this information with the FBI, including determining who authorized these actions.

He told The Defender:

> "The first thing we're doing is we're working with the Common-Sense Caucus in City Hall to get them to investigate. We need an investigation. I have my speculation of what's going on, but the truth is we don't know what's going on. Who gave the order for these problem codes to be given simply for the fact that we're declining COVID vaccination? Why did they do that? And have our civil rights been hurt because of it? I think they have.
>
> "So right now, I think we need an investigation, because there's lots of speculation happening and we need to get to the bottom of what really happened."

The Common-Sense Caucus is an officially recognized caucus within the New York City Council.

Kane said it is composed primarily of Republicans and has "been the only voice against mandates in New York City governance."

"We've been working closely with them, and they've been really pushing Mayor Eric Adams to be reasonable and to hear our concerns," Kane said.

He said legal action is a strong possibility, but they will give Adams and the city an opportunity to respond first. He said:

> "Right now we need to see if there will be any investigation into this, and we need to give New York City and Mayor Adams a chance to reply correctly. There's a chance he didn't do this. There's a chance this happened from the previous administration, from Mayor Bill de Blasio.
>
> "Letters need to be written, requests need to be made, and that may or may not lead to litigation. We have to see, because if the city complies and, and tries to work to fix this problem, I think that would be great. But we don't know yet. It's too early in the process."

Kane also wrote that by sending biometric data about unvaccinated teachers to the FBI, "NYC educators were being set up to be viewed as 'right-wing extremists' or even 'terrorists.'"

"Educators who declined COVID vaccination — including myself — had every right to do so," Kane wrote. "No one is a 'terrorist' or 'extremist' for holding the line on what does and does not go inside of their bodies — especially injected directly into their muscle tissue," he added.

Teachers fired by the DOE because they declined the COVID-19 vaccine may face a difficult time being rehired by the city, despite the city's claims that such workers can reapply for employment now that the vaccine mandate for city employees has been rescinded.

Kane said "reapplication definitely could be problematic" for these individuals. But he also noted, "The city is bleeding for employees. They're desperately dying for people to take jobs. So yes, I think it will hurt many, but I think the city is hurting way more right now."

As previously reported by The Defender, the U.S. House of Representatives has convened a Select Subcommittee on the Weaponization of the Federal Government, investigating claims that agencies such as the FBI collected information on and in some cases harassed ordinary Americans for their beliefs on topics such as COVID-19.

Kane wrote that such practices in New York City are not new. DNA specimens of city employees collected from COVID-19 tests were cataloged in proprietary libraries owned by Fulgent Genetics, the company contracted by de Blasio to administer the tests.

Dear Un'vaccinated' Teachers, there is a growing need for your services among the homeschooling population. You don't need to worry about problem codes and fingerprints. Leave the Prussian indoctrination system behind and join the movement. Be autonomous.

Since the Janus law passed in 2019 civil servants can no longer be forced to belong to a union, NYS included. I am a retired NYS employee and wish this happened before I was hired. Here's an article about it if you are interested https://capitalresearch.org...

Oh for Christ sake dude, just stop it already. This is not Marxism or socialism. This is the take over of government and one of its regulatory agencies by capitalist banking, corporate, and financial interests. This is the definition of fascism. Robert it is really annoying to have to read all these wrong-headed comments from these conservative Republicans on this site who equate the capture of the U.S. government and its regulatory agencies by billionaire capitalists who control all the banks, most corporations, and financial institutions, who are all most likely conservative republicans with being Marxist or socialist. And no, I don't think the covid vaccine is or was necessary or effective in preventing covid. And neither were masks.

Actually it is a combination of both fascism and Marxism. Fascism is being used to take over the government systems and Marxism is being used to pit the people against each other and divide the country.

Here is another one. I think I am going to go crazy reading these illogical republican conservative assertions. Look, the U.S. is thoroughly controlled financially by capitalists. The U.S. government and its regulatory agencies has been completely captured by the bankers, corporations, and other financial institutions. These are the people in power and making the laws and setting policy. Marxists or socialists are not setting policy in the U.S. So if inflation is crushing the middle class, blame the capitalists and their policies that they have put in place. But fon't blame Marxist or socialists for U.S. inflation crushing the middle class. The closest thing that the U.S. has to a Marxist, socialist policy is so ill security and nedicare for the old, and medicaid for the poor. And these meager policies are hardly the cause of crushing g inflation.

Conservative Republicans by definition follow the Constitution. Are you against the Constitution which is a firewall between a tyrannical govt. and the citizenry?Marxists pretend to be in favor of the citizens, but since it's policies that affect our daily lives, do you know of any Marxist society that has a better standard of living than the U.S. which was built on conservative ideas?

Yes, and it seems like a lot of 'educated' liberal types have no clue what is really going on with the fascist takeover which has been decades in the making - so they are state cheerleaders, sort of like pod people since cov- so I can see how the two get so confounded. I literally hang out with a bunch of older liberals who are all pro jab pro fascism and don't know it and I could see slapping a marxist label on them because of this idea that the collective can decide the medical treatment of all - but maybe I'd call that communist. They like Biden! Hundreds of them in a room together in 2023!

So you say Republicans are not cheerleaders for this fascist takeover? You vote for politicians who do everything in their power to allow bankers, corporations, financial interests to have a free reign. Remember your deregulation memes. Just what do you think will happen when these entities are deregulated? Just exactly what has happened now with a fascist takeover of the U.S. government, by your deregulated banks, corporations, and financial institutions. And a concentration of ownership and wealth by a few and further exploitation of workers. Nope it is Republicans and yes some conservative democrats of the Manchin, Sinema types who allowed for this sorry state of affairs. Not, socialists, Marxists or lol, BLM. Because, get this through your head, they are not, and have not been in power setting policy. The capitalists have been.

Oh for crying out loud Marxism is not being used for that purpose. Good grief. The U.S. government is in no way Marxist man. It's in the control of capitalists. There is no state in the U.S. remotely Marxist. So if a person believes in Marxism, according to you they are devisive. Well what about a person who believes in capitalism? Why is that not devisive? Goodness gracious. Jesus Christ you conservative Republicans drive me crazy with your non logical assertions.

You said globalists are not capitalists???? History. Fuedalists invented capitalism. Now the capitalists are inventing globalism or new world order or whatever you want to call it. But it's not Marxism or socialism. Really it's just another form of capitalism with workers having even less power. One more thing clueless. The fascists who took over the government are capitalists. Do you think U.S. corporations, bankers, finacialists are Marxist or socialists. Name one who is that actually advocates for and enacts socialist policy. BTW no damage of any consequence was perpetrated by BLM. They were infiltrated by the same fascists U.S. capitalists that have taken over the U.S. government. And BLM had nothing to do with that.

I don't know what the basis of the statement "feudalists invented capitalism" is. One problem is that people don't distinguish between classical capitalism where traders are individually liable, and corporatism in which businesses are run by bureaucracies who pay themselves lots of money who aren't liable. BTW Gentry please keep discussion civil.

Don't lecture me on civility after I have read a lot of these comments. You'd do better lecturing your conservative friends. I'll respond in kind. Example, I was referred to as clueless. I think they are. But typical projection by conservative Republicans. Also, I do recognize that this latter form of capitalism is run by the people who control the U.S. government. The former capitalists are being squeezed by the latter. And this is inevitable. Especially when the former blame people of little consequence and power for their perceived woes and not blame those actually in power and setting policy.

They use cronyism, not free market capitalism for their business dealings. They use Marxism as a weapon to cause chaos and fear. They pay others to do their Marxist/Socialist bidding for them. Take Soros for instance, he is a crony capitalist (not a true free market capitalist) who pays different groups like BLM to practice Marxism. No damage of consequence was perpetrated by BLM, really??? Oh I know, mostly peaceful protests right? Who were these "fascists" that "infiltrated" them? Try to answer me without insults if you can.

Thankfully we still have a semblance of capitalism which has generated more wealth for all in the history of the world, but if the left has their way we will be under the Chinese model of govt. which they have openly admired. Hopefully, there will be sufficient resistance to rescue our country from these wannabe tyrants.

Fascism, Crony Capitalism and Marxism (among many others) are just different flavors of collectivism, which ALWAYS ends in tyranny because the ultimate goals of the collective are placed above the rights of any individual. You are naive to think that Marxism/Socialism is in any way benevolent or superior to other iterations of collectivism.

But you would not be naive to believe that your choice is superior. And which one would tat be? And it's not crony capitalism that has been bad throughout the ages, but capitalism itself. Capitalism from its inception has always been about cronyism.

Capitalism surely isn't perfect, but it is most closely married with humans' natural tendency for looking first to self interest and preservation. Your beloved Socialism/Communism will never work (other than in theory) until human beings naturally love total strangers as much as themselves and their own family and friends. If you look around, it doesn't seem that mankind is "evolving" in that direction, does it?

Good conversation on "capitalism." These days masses are being subjected to "predatory capitalism" (see John Perkins' "Confessions of an Economic Hit Man") rather than "mom-and-pop capitalism" (see Michael Parenti.

An additional view may be seen in Michael Hudson's "Financial Capitalism v. Industrial Capitalism." https://michael-hudson.com/...

What is clear to me is that both left and right, Republican and Democrat politicians serve their masters, the globalists, and that the "perception management" of the masses keeps us continually divided.

It is all the same thing as the plan of the globalist WEF billionaires in banking, media, governments, etc. They are aggressively working to fulfill Agenda 30 as Agenda 21 has been fulfilled. Their goal is to impoverish the wealthy nations and their people so we will beg the UN to take control and save us. Then they will realize their plan for One World Government with us, the serfs owning nothing and them owning everything.

There may be an agenda 30 for a one world government. Probably is. And the multi billionaire bankers, corporations, financiers, promoting this agenda are capitalists. Capitalism from its inception has always been about the individual and I mean a special group of individuals who will be in charge of everything as you say of this one world government. As sure as I am sitting here typing those in control if this situation comes to pass will be the capitalists. You guys just refuse to consider that power concentrated in the hands of the few (individual) is what capitalism has always been about, and is the exact opposite of what Marxism and socialism is. You have it backwards.

Yep John. The reinstatement of feudalism, with the capitalist bankers, corporatists, financiers of today replacing the kings, queens, dukes, dutchess, priests, bishops, cardinals, etc. of the past. And a lot of people but especially conservative Republicans think capitalism was invented by the working class for the well being of the working class. They wrongly equate capitalism with democracy, freedom, justice, equality, fairness. Capitalism was invented by the rich and powerful to more efficiently extract wealth and resources from workers, and to do so more ruthlessly. People, do you really think that the bankers, corporatists, and finances of yesteryear invented capitalism for the betterment of workers at their expense? Really? Look at the history of capitalism and you will see that it wasn't.

While there are certainly Republicans who have aligned themselves with the left of the country, as well as globalists who have turned capitalism (the greatest economic system in the history of the world) into Crony Capitalism, which combines capitalists with govt. When these two "marry", capitalism is no longer capitalism. When Trump was in office, the divorce between the two systems began and his policies made it seem like Christmas every day. From being energy independent to Right to Try, his policies benefited every demographic better than those of any president in my lifetime.
